Message from the State Minister

I am pleased to send greetings to the Urban Development Authority Corporate Plan 2022- 2024. This ambitious plan is in accordance with the 'Vistas of Prosperity and Splendor' policy statement which sets forth the long-term strategic goals and objectives of the UDA for the implementation of its core mission to fulfil the pledge of His Excellency the President Gotabaya Rajapaksa to the people of Sri Lanka. This comprehensive and insightful plan sets new goals in key areas of urban transformation over the next four years and outlines its objectives and the actions required to realize them.

The Urban Development Authority Corporate Plan 2022- 2024 outlines the means and strategies that will be employed in pursuing the key policy of integrating physical spatial systems to address the disparities in urbanization and change the structural pattern of our cities.

The UDA has been a powerful force in urban transformation for over four decades. It has always been guided by its vision, 'Towards a Planned, Sustained and Adored Urbanization' while meeting the highest standards of excellence through continuous development of its human capacity, systems and processes.

The UDA's Corporate Plan is more than a wish list; it includes an in-depth analysis of our opportunities and strengths and offers ways to leverage these to deliver the promise given to the people of Sri Lanka. Through the 2022- 2024 period, UDA must continue to navigate through challenges and achieve our vision for a better tomorrow. In spite of the difficulties and obstacles that lie ahead, we all should earnestly cherish the opportunity to take the country to new heights through the Urban Development Authority Corporate Plan 2022- 2024.

I congratulate the Chairman, the Board of Directors and the Director General for formulating a comprehensive plan and wish the UDA team all success in its execution.

Editor's Forward

The Corporate Plan 2022-2024 of the Urban Development Authority is presented to you with gratitude while reminiscing the efforts made to complete it over the last year. It is indeed a great achievement. Even though the past attempts for such were completed with the aid of external consultants, the Authority found difficulty in bringing those expectations into reality. Hence, the Authority decided on preparing the Corporate Plan 2022-2024 in-house. Accordingly, the task was delegated to me and my junior professionals. Further, it should be noted that, the Corporate Plan 2022-2024 of the Urban Development Authority has been prepared by taking all observations and recommendations provided by the directors and above personnel of the Authority through many workshops, meetings and discussions.

As it is well known the Urban Development Authority is the key planning and implementation body in the country established to ensure enforcing the powers and functions conferred by the Act No.41 of 1978. While the Authority has responsibly to lead the Economic, Social, Environmental and Physical development in the urban areas it looks forward to fulfil national requirements those which have been identified through 'National Policy Framework Vistas of Prosperity and Splendour' for the coming years. In order to do so, we believe the Corporate Plan 2022-2024 of the Authority shall involve vigorously. It has been prepared with the involvement of professionals and practitioners within and out of the Urban Development Authority.

My special thanks is extended to the Minister of State, Ministry of Urban Development and Housing, Hon. Dr. Nalaka Godahewa, and the Secretary to the State Ministry, Mr. Sirinimal Perera, for their support and guidance in making this task a success. I should mention that the persuasion of former Secretary to the Ministry, Dr. Priyath Bandu Wickrema to look at this task in a new dimension was also a reason for this success. I greatly appreciate the support of the Board of Management of UDA. The plan was formulated based on the advice & guidance provided by them. I should also remind the guidance offered by the Authority's former Chairman, Archt. Harshan De Silva in this successful attempt.

Further, I would like to recall the guidance offered by Chairman, Director General of the Urban Development Authority with great appreciation. The constant advices, recommendations and suggestions given by our Additional Director General, Deputy Director Generals, are remarked with sincere gratitude. On the other hand, all the directors of the Authority are remembered with great appreciation for their support towards the Corporate Plan 2022-2024 in numerous ways.

Plnr. Lalith Wijayarathne

WE PLAN

WE PLAN

- ◆ Integrated spatial Planning is the main function of the UDA
- ◆ Planning divisions of UDA is responsibility towards prepare Integrated spatial plans
- ◆ Not only plans, Identify the strategic projects and Project Planning are also a key action which carried via integrated planning process
- ◆ As per the present context a city hierarchy has to be developed via the planning process of the UDA including National Cities, Connecting cites and Cluster cities

OUR CHALLENGE

Urban planning offers the ability to transform a vision for a city into reality through implementation. It helps cities thrive development in an orderly manner. On the other hand, it lays paths to enhance livability, prosperity and equity of city dwellers.

Planning cities has become a much-needed discipline as they are getting overpopulated day by day and resources are getting scarce. On the other hand, urban areas are becoming complicated with environmental degradation and effects of climate change along with rapid developments. This situation has brought forward the need for integrated planning.

So far, many spatial plans have been prepared with the aim of developing and enhancing the functionality and exquisiteness of urban areas. However, it could be noted that there are a number of areas to be declared as urban areas by the UDA as for the provisions given by its Act. As a result, those areas have developed in an informal manner resulting in inadequate infrastructure, accumulation of solid waste, lack of public open spaces etc. Those informal urban areas seem to be inefficient and require more resources to maintain. Accordingly, the UDA is to take necessary measures to declare a significant number urban areas in future to impose new suitable developments to ensure the public welfare.

Another concern is the identification of projects on the appropriate time at the appropriate location since, every project and its resources are finite. Along with the said constrains, allocating the required funds and procrastinating the budget for long term projects in the initial stage are also major limitations.

As the key planning authority in the country, it is our responsibility to take measures to mitigate above situation. In order to do so, we need to be equipped with necessary systems, tools and strategies to overcome.

OUR STRATEGIES

It is accepted that when a city is well planned, a connection is built between the long-term vision and short-term actions. Thus, cities get the opportunity to stay ahead of challenges and recognize opportunities and manage risk in the most appropriate manner. For this, we need to bring forward research based planning and innovative planning techniques from the initial stage of a plan. The Planning related divisions of UDA are involved responsibly towards preparing integrated spatial plans derived via proper planning and theoretical mechanisms based on the context. Identification of strategic projects is also a key action which is carried out based on the integrated planning process in urban areas, anticipating rather than reacting.

In order to achieve sustainability in planning throughout the country, urban development should be carried forward in all declared urban areas while achieving the integration of physical, social, economic and environmental aspects. Even though it is factual that the magnitude of the challenges cities face cannot be predicted in the most accurate manner when planning, desired improvements will be momentarily undertaken by us through prioritised projects which align with the vision for an urban area and the country at large.

Hence, through proper planning we expect that cities would be able to face spatial developing challenges in the position of anticipating rather than reacting.

- ◆ This Principle mainly consider about the implication of regulation with in UDA declared areas
- ◆ Enforcement activities are carried out by the planning divisions of the UDA and enforcement audit and monitoring unit.
- ◆ Development approval process is a key component under this principle and in approval process UDA involve in following approval types, PPC, BA, RVA, COC, BOP, Tower Crane
- ◆ In this principle it has shown that the importance of the regulation update process
- ◆ UDA also involve in enforce activities in Local Authorities

OUR CHALLENGE

Cities strongly influence the prosperity and well-being of city residents as well as people in rural areas. Hence, policies and regulations should be given key priority with attention focussed on growing and adapting the changes that take place in physical, economic, social and environmental aspects in urban areas.

Policies and regulations are the tools those help to set the planned aims on the real ground. Thus, outdated policies and regulations can result in inconsistent practices which could lead to risk the comfortability and the functionality of an urban area.

As the Urban Development Authority holds the key statutory powers to manage urban declared areas, it has the responsibility to assure that rapid urbanization is controlled and guided through these tools. However, given the situation, it could be noticed that gaps exist when regulations are put into practice as they have not been updated to accept the drastic changes over the past years. Moreover, contradictions in enforcement mechanism have sometimes hindered the smart use of the available space of some urban areas and led unauthorized and haphazard developments to spread in an unacceptable manner. Hence, it is vital to minimize such circumstances.

OUR STRATEGIES

It is our responsibility to review policies and regulations as it is crucial for effective use of these tools in controlled development. Regularly reviewed policies and regulations ensure the consistency in smart application of planning practices and adapt up to date demographic changes, technology advancements, and industry best practices. Thus, Urban Development Authority shall take measures to review and revise the policies and regulations and do amendments to remove the outdated regulations and impose new policies to the planning approval system and enforcement mechanism or else measures shall be taken to change the details with the particular area and industry while the core elements of a policy stay the same. Through these, corruption is also expected to be mitigated as the policies, laws, guidelines, rules, rights and duties are clearly defined, implemented and enforced.

If one initiative is to be taken into consideration, the UDA is about to introduce a centralized promotion and facilitation center 'One Stop Unit' which is intended to expedite the necessary clearances and approvals from relevant line agencies concurrently through one platform within a short approval processing period. This initiative undeniably will help to create a good business climate that is positive to developments and business expansions while ensuring high transparency and a hassle-free approval experience for all interested parties while controlling unauthorized constructions continuously and maintain city image in a presentable manner.

OUR CHALLENGE

The UDA has taken many attempts to uplift the living quality in urban areas through implementation of various urban projects. Even though the ultimate aim of these is to gain financial, social, environmental and economic returns, in reality some of these urban projects seems to be less attractive and ineffective in generating such returns. The reasons for such situations may vary from project to project but commonly identified that at times the implementation of projects take place independently with no attention given on the integration between projects and the next step of the development process. Thus, it is crucial to bring forward holistic decisions to convert conceptualized projects on the ground level with participation of respective stakeholders

Moreover, the impact of a project on the physical, economic, social, and environmental aspects needs to be evidently forecasted before the implementation phase since it could result in failure. Another main concern is the requirement of forming the projects identified in respective development plans on real grounds. However, at times these prioritisations vary due to various reasons. Thus, it is always required to identify the need /requirement of the specific context at the right time. Especially, the component of social costs plays a major role in project implementation and it is also challengeable to implement the projects on real ground with the handling of funding mechanisms while providing benefits to the stakeholders.

OUR STRATEGIES

In order to address the challenges those have been faced when implementing urban projects, the most prominent concern is given on learning from the past. Thus, adoption of new implementing approaches which are efficient, effective and guarantees great control and success are crucial. Taking these particulars into attention, we accomplish our intentions of project implementation with the support of a well-trained and experienced professional workforce along with clearly defined goals and objectives which are aligned with the relevant spatial plans.

These spatial plans act as systematic technological inputs to perform towards successful implementation of projects to address a definite need of a community or timely requirement of the economic and infrastructure conditions with consider the proper maintenance after project completion.

WE BUILD

WE BUILD

- ◆ To give solutions to the need for housing is known to be a prominent consideration in urban development.
- ◆ In the present situation fulfillment of housing need of the country is mainly handle by the UDA and there are different types of housing projects like URP housing, Affordable housing projects, middle income housing projects and luxury housing projects
- ◆ Providing housing units to people is not an isolated task and this task has a socio-economics component
- ◆ Many policy frame woks in present context have highlighted this housing development and UDA is in the proses of facilitate this while allocating a considerable amount of resources

OUR CHALLENGE

The need for housing is known to be a prominent consideration in urban development. Hence, the UDA Act itself has provisioned the UDA to provide adequate housing facilities for city dwellers along with other developments. According to Survey, Over fifty percent of the Colombo city population lives in shanties, slums or dilapidated old housing schemes, which occupied nine percent of the total land extent of the city. They do not have a healthy environment for human habitation and access to basic infrastructure facilities. However, land scarcity and other cost constraints have made it challengeable to address this need in the most effective and efficient manner. Thus, issues related to housing affordability, social contradictions, illegal encroachments, haphazard developments and many other issues have aroused. Relocation of these families in new housing schemes with acceptable standards will be one major challenge in the direction of transforming Colombo into a world recognized city with a clean and pleasing environment to cop up the city development plan objectives. This is an issue, which needs to be addressed through proper planning and implementation of housing projects to satisfy urban communities while enhancing the livability of cities. This situation has hindered the quality of living of the city dwellers as well as the appropriate development in cities.

Also, From the last few decades, housing sector in Sri Lanka has taken a new turn mainly because of the demand created by the fast expanding 'Middle Class' of the society. The changes in the employment pattern and the lifestyles associated with them, declining quality and reliability of the public transportation systems, urge for children's' admission to popular schools, etc., have all resulted in a need among these Middle Class families to find shelter within close proximities to urban centers. This situation in turn, increased the demand for lands within both main cities, specially Colombo, and its immediate surroundings.

Yet, since the extents of readily developable lands are often limited, high horizontal density intensified, haphazard development has mostly become a necessity, rather than a choice. Such densities need to be supported with adequate physical infrastructure such as the access roads, pipe borne water supply, sewerage disposal, storm water drainage, etc., Further, the survey conducted by the Housing Development Authority focusing on the city of Colombo has identified the need for 42,000 middle-income vertical housing unit's apartments. Forecasts show that the demand for housing is increasing rapidly. Since the said demand is in urban areas and their immediate surroundings, housing developments generate a sizeable impact on the urban areas, urban spaces, utilities, facilities and amenities and the overall quality of life of the inhabitants.

OUR STRATEGIES

Providing dwelling units is not an isolated task as a housing unit should be capable to connect with other elements of a city and aid well-functioning of every sector. Hence, it is essential to provide required amenities along with housing and make safe and sound neighborhoods, which ensure quality urban living. It is also a responsibility to assure a range of housing experiences to accommodate diverse life styles with affordability. In order to cater to these objectives UDA has launched a program for construction of 50,000 housing units for relocation of underserved settlements of the city of Colombo and its immediate suburbs. For that purpose, introduce the Urban Regeneration to eliminate slums, shanties and other dilapidated housing from the city of Colombo by relocating dwellers in modern houses and liberated lands to be utilized for commercial and mix development.

It is also expected to extent this responsibility to accomplish the vision of providing shelter for every individual in urban areas. Such intervention shall stimulate city growth. Middle income housing is need of people. That, light the UDA intends to introduce a general policy guideline towards a regulated 'high density' vertical housing development for all declared urban areas in Sri Lanka. With the UDA intend, It assure a bearable impact on the exiting functional order of the urban areas and also harmonize the upcoming housing developments with the existing landscapes.

Our Principles

WE COLLABORATE

WE COLLABORATE

- ◆ In this principle it is mainly discussed about the real estate functions of the UDA
- ◆ Mainly land division and Real Estate division is responsible under this principle
- ◆ Since UDA is a self-funding organization it is importance to have a revenue generation mechanism in real estate sector.
- ◆ The main activities which come under this principle are land acquisition, allocation and relocation, RFP process, Promotion and Marketing and maintains the UDA properties
- ◆ This principle is focused, how UDA can collaborate with privet sector and other government institutions in terms of the developing partnerships for investments

OUR CHALLENGE

As an urban planning and real estate-oriented institution, UDA is no stranger to develop collaborations at different levels. Such collaborative networks that are vibrant and mutually beneficial can be a catalyst for positive change and growth, when it has the right stakeholders on the other end. The main challenge faced by the UDA in the perspective of collaboration is that it holds several categories of stakeholders varying from under privileged to highly privileged. Integration with these parties while fulfilling their requirements is generally seen as a difficult task. Moreover, it is also sometimes a challenge for the UDA offer resources required to effectively collaborate to gain advantages.

Land scarcity is another concern which hinders the success of some projects. Even though many under-utilized lands are owned by public entities, prevailing internal cultures restrict the ability to use them for appropriate development. Even though UDA has the ability to proceed for acquisition of necessary lands for the development, it takes a considerably long duration. As a result, implementation of prioritized projects delays and cause negative externalities over many parties. This situation is more often noticed in areas in close proximity to highway networks, potential industrial and tourism development areas. Thus, measures should be taken to mitigate this situation.

OUR STRATEGIES

Real estate development is not a single or simple activity. It is a continuous process which runs for a long-term and consists of a set of different activities thus requires the commitment of a team of experts to succeed. The efforts put into a development are worth only if the final product is usable, functional, and adoptable to satisfy the purposes of varied users of the property. Hence, the relevant divisions will be empowered and equipped with new resources and human capital to overcome the said challenges and develop a systematic way to manage the UDA properties while ensuring the interest of the stakeholders to reap the best returns for the benefit of the country.

UDA shall also initiate a long-term programme to partner with private sector to gain the optimum benefits from the real estate resources. Even though the private sector goals rely on maximum return from investments in terms of development fee, profits, long term equity, and capital gain. They also seek professional enhancement through such involvement. Hence, UDA is to guide the private sector in a collaborative manner towards a win-win situation. On the other hand, the UDA is to act its business development role by providing information and guidance to assist the stakeholders when initiating investments.

Local and global investments on real estate development are highly regularized. For instance, taxes, labour laws, land and property laws, public infrastructure, financial operations, planning and zoning regulations, building permits and land supply etc., directly involves in the investment process. UDA is involved initiating mechanisms to overcome the complexities and facilitate them continuously with the aid of relevant divisions within the authority and external institutions. This could include a database with information related to investment including lands owned by different institutes, the current uses of them and the legal background. Further the UDA Act provisions the platform of collaborating by entering into contract for the execution of development projects, acquiring, holding or disposing of any movable or immovable property acquired or held. Effective use of these provisions in order to enhance the global partnership for sustainable development, complemented by multi-stakeholder partnerships that mobilize knowledge, expertise, technology and financial resources are essential to take into consideration. Such involvement always supports the achievement of the development in urban areas in the country.

The UDA shall also contribute towards the success of collaborative developments by intervening effectively and efficiently in real estate related functions through its owned institutes.
